LONDON, April 26.—Great Britain's financial and economic position has been overhauled by the attempt to solve the problem of the coal industry by a government subsidy, declared Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, in the House of Commons this afternoon in his budget speech and report on the financial status of the nation. Mr. Churchill announced that a promised surplus of $70,000,000 has been converted into a deficit of $39,000,000 by the operation of the coal subsidy.

Struck shortly after 1 a.m. Sunday morning, oil well still rising in the hole at the Edmonton-Wainwright No. 1 well at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon and in spite of continued bailing operations was showing a gain on the drilling crew, while indications were that the gas pressure beneath the steadily rising oil was increasing.

Already plans are being made for rebuilding the Leduc hotel, destroyed by fire. The Maple Leaf Cafe contemplates erecting a brick building, costing between $2,000 and $4,000, while C. W. Carson expects to erect a brick building adjoining the cafe at approximately the same cost.

FIFTEEN DEAD, FIFTY INJURED IN NEW RIOTS

Hindus and Moslems Battle With Pick axes and Swords

Pointing a gun at his five-year-old sister and pulling the trigger, Albert Barrett, aged 9, shot and killed the girl at his father's farm, at Cannell, a few miles north of Edmonton, Saturday.

"Get out of the way," Albert playfully said to the girl, For enza, as he was bringing the gun from a nearby out-building. He did not know the gun was loaded, as he had ejected the shells a few days previously and placed the rifle on a shelf where it remained unexamined. Evidently one of the shells had jammed.

The bullet from a .22 calibre rifle passed through the girl's chest, and she died instantly. An investigation of the shooting was conducted by the coroner, Keillor, and the coroner decided that the affair was accidental and no inquest was unnecessary.

Two of a Kind

Chang Tso Lin says belchism must be rooted out of Manchuria. True, of course, if Manchuria is to evolve into anything better than a slave compound or a pleasure house. But no more true than that Chang and his kind will have to be rooted out of all China if the vast realm over which the Manchus once ruled is to undergo a like development toward the ideals of civilization and ordered freedom.

Oriental subtlety may detect a theoretical difference between the aims of Chang and his privy and the aims of Trotsky and company. Practically the activities of one group lead to practically the same result as the activities of the other: the result being war, pestilence and famine, followed by the rule of the strong, and the subjection of the mass to the greed and brutality of a predatory class.

Subsidized Grain Rates?

Some eastern papers suggest that western grain be hauled to Atlantic ports over the National Transcontinental at less than cost rates, the losses in the operation to be made up by grants from the Dominion treasury.

The National Transcontinental was built upwards of twenty years ago. It was built to provide a cheap winter route for western grain to the Atlantic. But it has never been used for that purpose. And it is significant that the proposal to subsidize it into use only came to the surface when the western route began to draw away the grain from half the prairie country to the Pacific.

Alberta farmers have suffered more than any other western farmers from the excessive cost of shipping grain over the established routes to the Atlantic. They would have gained more than any other western farmers in bygone years if the National Transcontinental had been put to the work for which it was constructed. They would have gained more than any other western farmers in bygone years if the National Transcontinental had been put to the work for which it was constructed. They would have gained more than any other western farmers in bygone years if the National Transcontinental had been put to the work for which it was constructed.

At Home and Abroad.

Annual reports of the automotive industry show that Canadian motor cars are being sold in Europe, in Asia, in Africa, in Australia, in South America; and in numbers large enough to constitute an important item in the statistics of our foreign trade. Canada is and has been for years the leading producer and exporter of automobiles. From Egypt to Siam there is hardly a country that has emerged from barbarism where Canadian cars are not puffing along the highways.

These export cars are sold without any tariff preference in most foreign countries. Our makers in those markets have to meet, and do most successfully, the competition of United States manufacturers, of German, French, Italian, and other foreign manufacturers—save perhaps the home manufacturer even in Europe. And where the home manufacturer is given preference, the Canadian car pays a duty and still sells against his product.

There is not much in these facts to substantiate the claim that the Canadian manufacturer cannot do business in Canada against the same foreign competitors unless he is given tariff protection to the extent of 35 per cent. Nor is there any reason why Canadians should pay excessive prices for home-made cars and an excessive duty on foreign cars in order that Canadian manufacturers can find the utmost part of the cost of the earth with Canadian-made cars at out-of-pocket prices; if that is what our manufacturers have been doing.

Few Postage Registered.

Objectors to the reduction of the income tax—like champions of three cent postage—are conspicuous by their scarcity. These, in fact, seem to be two items in the Robt budget which are accepted almost with unanimity, almost with gratitude, varied only in the warmth of the protests that they were not made long ago.

Two cents is perhaps as cheap as postage stamps will be sold for a long time to come. But the modified rate of income taxation will stand indefinitely is not at all probable. The rate is still high as compared with that in the United States, and the pressure of taxation on the part of the expulsive forces which drive Canadians across the border.

Hereafter a married man in Canada with an income of $4000 will be required to contribute $20 to the Dominion treasury. That is, he who formerly paid 80 per cent of the same income will hardly recognize him to the fact that if he lived south of the border he would not have to pay $65.83. That disproportion runs all the way up the scale, and widens with the ascent.

Taking a slice off the income tax may not develop into one of the regular items of the annual program of Parliament, but it is likely to be an occurrence of growing frequency. That system of raising revenue is plainly marked for replacement, and if the current program is not abolished in the course of a few years there will be little cause for surprise and less expressions of regret.

Just Folks

FOR THE YOUNGER GENERATION

I am a young man, and I have been thinking a great deal lately about the future of my country. I have been thinking about the young men and women who are growing up in this country, and about the responsibilities that are being placed upon them.

Mad we have been taught to live in such a materialistic way, and to be so much interested in money and power, and to be so much concerned with the things of this world, that we have forgotten the things that are truly important.

Obedient children, every one. When we were young we never knew the mother's mastery of speech. The home and the father's power were revered, and we were taught to be obedient children, every one.

Our lives were very simple then. We had no money, but we had the things that are truly important. We had the love of our parents, and we had the love of our country. We had the things that are truly important.

Our children now are being taught in a different way. They are being taught to be materialistic, and to be interested in money and power, and to be concerned with the things of this world. They are being taught to be obedient children, every one.

Our children now are being taught in a different way. They are being taught to be materialistic, and to be interested in money and power, and to be concerned with the things of this world. They are being taught to be obedient children, every one.

Obedient children, every one. When we were young we never knew the mother's mastery of speech. The home and the father's power were revered, and we were taught to be obedient children, every one.

Our lives were very simple then. We had no money, but we had the things that are truly important. We had the love of our parents, and we had the love of our country. We had the things that are truly important.

MAIN BUSINESS BLOCK IS SOON LEFT IN ASHES

related to the lake. This was some distance and a result only a few minutes of time was available. Fortunately, there was little wind and the combined efforts of the Edmonton and Leduc brigades mastered the flames.

The Edmontonians were back in the city by 10 a.m. The total damage is estimated at between $1,000 and $1,500 and all buildings are partially covered by insurance.

Twenty Minutes Delay
Failure of the tower of Leduc authorities to accept an offer made by the city of Edmonton would have caused a twenty-minute delay when assistance was asked for in Sunday's disastrous fire, and probably resulted in the loss of being more than it would have been had the bridge been allowed to leave Edmonton when the fire was made.

Nearly two years ago offers were made to all the surrounding municipalities to send fire apparatus to them on request at a charge of 10 cents per hour for apparatus during use and 50 cents per hour for the men with it. A retainer of $25 per month was also requested.

Other Not Accepted
Port Saskatchewan and St. Albert were the only two municipalities to accept the offer. Leduc officials considering the price too high. The consequence was that when the fire chief received the Leduc call Sunday he had no authority to turn the apparatus out as the fire was outside the city limits, and it was not until the request was relayed through to the commissioners after twenty minutes that the apparatus was given.

When the necessary authority was given the apparatus made a short run to Leduc, reaching there in about thirty minutes, and the seven men crew on the pump soon had the flames laid.

With between 2,000 and 3,000 people looking on and urging the contestants to attain greater speed, Mayor Blackford and Clyde Houson a dead heat in their sign painting competition at the Market Square Saturday afternoon.

Preliminaries commenced at 10 p.m. when the judges, Rev. Dr. H. J. McQueen and Lord Bishop P. A. Troy, each issued brief addresses telling of the fair and impartial character in which the contest was to be conducted.

Clyde Houson led off, taking as his slogan "Edmonton needs more trees."

NEW OIL WELL TO YIELD 150 BBLs. DAILY

Well was hauled a distance of 10 feet into the air. The well was hauled a distance of 10 feet into the air. The well was hauled a distance of 10 feet into the air.

Speaking to the Bulletin Sunday night as he passed through the city on route for Calgary, Mr. Chamberlain said: "The well looks good. There is a lot of life in the oil. It bubbles just like champagne. This well should prove a big thing for Alberta."

In addition to A. M. Nowak, president of the company, there were many Edmonton and Waterbury people present, when the article was made, including Charles Dinningman, government engineer, and Tom Chamberlain, one of the largest oil operators and contractors in Montana.

Attraction Interest

W. R. Houson, president of the Central Alberta Oil and Gas Association, said: "The capital of the Edmonton-Waterbury company came from Toronto and the success of this well—the first drilled by the company—undoubtedly be the means of attracting much other money capital."

He said that the company has had many inquiries from interested people in the United States who want to know the development of the Waterbury field, as to the results of this well and how that has come to be expected there will be in the Waterbury field.

On Saturday I received a wire from Thomas M. Nowak, secretary of state, informing me that the company had been chartered by the Waterbury Petroleum, Ltd., the Edmonton Oil, Ltd., the Waterbury Petroleum, Ltd., the Edmonton Oil and Gas Association, and the Waterbury Petroleum, Ltd.

Official Statement
R. M. Smith of the Central Alberta Oil and Gas Association, received the following official statement from A. M. Nowak this morning:

"Edmonton-Waterbury Oil & Gas Limited, No. 1 well in the Waterbury field came in on April 25 as a good commercial oil well. Head Driller Frank Stevens states that the company is now assured of an oil well with a capacity of one hundred and fifty barrels per 24 hours at least at the present. Sunday there is a pressure of 600 feet of oil in the casing. He also states that the gas pressure is much stronger than in the British Petroleum well 318 which is located some 650 feet south of Edmonton-Waterbury No. 1."

Therefore, there is a reasonable possibility that the Edmonton-Waterbury well may prove to be a few days to have a greater capacity than 150 barrels per 24 hours.

(Signed) A. M. Nowak.

Mr. Director, Edmonton-Waterbury Oil Limited.

No. 2 Well Looks Good

Reports today from the Edmonton-Waterbury No. 2 well at Irma were also encouraging. This is now down to 450 feet and the well has picked up a little extra oil sand although it is not expected that this well will strike gas until it is drilled down. When this is reached the gas will be utilized for the well.

Present indications are to use this gas fuel for the sinking of a deep test well. The well is too tight for deepening and the well is too tight for deepening and the well is too tight for deepening.

The strike at the Number one well was made at 2:34 feet.

More point let's go. The spectators were amazed at first and thought Clyde was trying to put over a crowd-pleasing stunt, but after it was all over he turned his gas over and it was discovered he had painted his slogan upside down.

Mayor Blackford took as his slogan "Here's a tree. There's some sense about it." Getting about his work with the aid of all the well-dressed and the spectators with his dexterity and was much applauded.

By 4:15 the "oil" was sound and when the judges checked over their stop watches they found that not even a second separated the two. As a result of the tie, the contest was decided by Tom Campbell for the winner in a tie.

Judges and contestants appeared in the parade on the main street in the Great West Grand Canyon.

Drilling was completed in 24 hours and was held up for several days. The well was hauled a distance of 10 feet into the air. The well was hauled a distance of 10 feet into the air.
